What is Keeper Ring

A keeper ring is a traditional gold ring, originally designed to act as a “guard” for another ring. Worn just in front of a valuable piece, such as a diamond engagement ring, the keeper ring ensured it stayed secure and did not slip off. Over time, this practical jewel evolved into a much-loved design in its own right – admired for its heritage, craftsmanship, and sentimental meaning.

Keeper rings are often distinguished by raised gold beads, patterns, or delicate diamond settings, making them elegant yet understated. They carry both history and modern appeal, symbolising love, security, and continuity.

At PureJewels, we celebrate the tradition of the gold keeper ring while giving it a contemporary edge. Our collection includes 22ct gold keeper rings – rich in colour and heritage – as well as 18ct keeper rings for those who prefer a lighter tone of gold, or platinum keeper rings for a modern, enduring choice. Each ring is hallmarked and crafted with the meticulous attention to detail that our artisans are known for.

For those seeking something truly personal, we also offer bespoke keeper rings made on demand. Whether you wish to recreate a family heirloom, design a new piece in 22ct, 18ct, or platinum, or add diamond embellishments, our design team will be delighted to bring your vision to life.

A keeper ring from PureJewels is not only a jewel – it is a story of tradition, protection, and elegance, designed to be cherished for generations.
